Tiktok download free video

TikTok has some video content and sometimes you may want to download TikTok videos to your devices. Downloading videos from TikTok allows you to view your favorite content even when you're not connected to the Internet. It also allows you to share these files with others through your preferred sharing methods. There are several ways to download TikTok videos on multiple devices. Download TikTok videos on Android If you're using an Android device, you have two ways to download TikTok videos to your phone or tablet. Using the TikTok app itself a way to download TikTok videos on Android is to use the official TikTok app. This method works for all videos where the creator has enabled the download. Launch the TikTok app on your phone. Find the video you want to download. You'll see some options in the right sidebar. Tap on the option that has an arrow icon (it's to share the video). On the next screen, you'll have several ways to share the selected video. Since you want to download this TikTok video, tap save video. Wait for the video to download to your device. You'll see live progress on your screen. You will get a menu that will allow you to share your video. Tap Cancel while the video is now downloading to your device. Open the Gallery app and you will find the chosen TikTok video downloaded there. Using WhatsApp Some videos in TikTok do not offer the download function. However, there is a solution to download those TikTok videos using WhatsApp. Launch WhatsApp on your phone. Tap the three dots in the upper-right corner and select New Group. Open the newly created group and tap its name at the top. Find the contact you added, touch it, and choose Delete. This will remove them from the group. Launch TikTok on your device. Play the video you want to download. Then tap the share icon in the right sidebar. From the Share for menu, tap WhatsApp. Select the newly created group with which you want to share the TikTok video. Open File Manager and go to Internal Storage > WhatsApp > Media > WhatsApp Video Sent. There you will find your TikTok video. Download TikTok Videos on iPhone iPhone users have three different ways to download TikTok videos. This includes downloading non-downloadable videos. Using the official TikTok app If the download is enabled for the video you want to download, you can use the TikTok app to save it to your phone. Open the TikTok app on your iPhone.Play the video you want to download. Tap the share icon in the menu on the right side. Select the Save Video option. Ignore the Share To menu that appears on the screen and tap Done to get rid of it. The video downloaded from TikTok will be available in the Photos app on your Quick way to download the video is to tap and hold the video and select Save Video. This does not require you to open the share menu. Using Instagram If you come up with a video that has been downloaded disabled for it, you can still download it to your phone using the Instagram app. Make sure it's installed on your iPhone and you're signed in to your account. Open the TikTok app on your iPhone.Find the video you want to download. Tap the share icon in the right sidebar. Select Instagram from the Share To menu to share your video on Instagram. Actually, it won't be published on your profile. Instagram publishing mode opens. Tap Cancel in the upper-left corner, as you don't want to publish anything. Open the Photos app on your iPhone and you will find the selected TikTok video downloaded there. Using Total Files If you do not use Instagram and want to download a disabled TikTok video in download on your iPhone, you can use the Total files file manager app to do so. Open the App Store on your iPhone, search for Total Files, and install it. Launch the TikTok app on your iPhone.Select the video you want to download. Tap the share icon in the right sidebar. Select Copy Link on the next screen to copy the link to the selected video. Open the Total Files app on your iPhone.Tap in the web icon in the lower right corner. Tap and hold the address bar at the top and choose Paste. Then click Go at the bottom. Play the video on the next screen. Tap the video when it starts playing and you'll receive a message. Click the green check mark icon. The total files will ask you where you want to save the video. Choose a destination and tap Done. The video will be downloaded and available for viewing in the Total Files app. Downloading TikTok videos to a computer Downloading TikTok videos to a computer does not require you to install any applications. All you need is access to your video link and you can download and save the video on your Windows or Mac computer. Using the source code of the page You can access the source code of the TikTok video and get the direct video download link from there. Use the Copy Link feature in TikTok on your phone to copy the video link and send it to your computer. Open the link in a browser on your computer. Right-click the video and select Inspect. You'll see the download link as highlighted below. Open it in a new tab. Right-click the video and select Save Video As. Using an online downloader There are many TikTok downloaders online to help you download TikTok videos to your computers. Go to the MusicallyDown online download website. Paste the TikTok video link and click Download. Click Download MP4 now on the next screen. What is your favorite way to download TikTok videos to your devices? Let us know in the comments below. (Pocket-lint) - TikTok's platform may have exploded over the past two years, but some parts of its experience of have been and are still slightly unpolished. One of these areas has been reporting for users when one of their videos is removed from the service. What is TikTok and how does it work? Everything you need to know! In most cases, you would only receive a slightly vague message that your post had violated the app's community guidelines, without an accurate explanation of what it was with the content you uploaded. Now, however, a change is coming - TikTok says it's improving the way reports are handled. When a user has their video removed, they should instead give not only the explanation that the community guidelines were violated, but be pointed out which particular guideline was the problem. They will also still have the option to launch an appeal against elimination, which opens up the possibility that it can be reinstalled. That could be a pot of fish for TikTok to stay on top of it, but it's a positive step for the community. On a more granular level, TikTok says it's also working to refine how your report notifications work, so people can be presented not only with information about the platform when they need it, but also find outside help if the content they've seen has affected them. The changes should be live now, and you can read the full detail about them on the TikTok blog. Written by Max Freeman-Mills. TikTok videos are more fun with music and sounds. Luckily for you, the app has an extensive library of sounds to search, discover, preview, and instantly add to your videos. It is extremely easy to find and apply a sound to your video, however, there are some restrictions with customization. For example, you can't choose the exact section of a song or sound to your video. TikTok will apply it exactly as it plays in your preview. You can add music to videos you upload to TikTok from your device or to videos you record directly through the app. The following instructions can be followed similarly for Android and iOS versions of the TikTok app, however, screenshots are included only for iOS version. Open the TikTok app on your Android or iOS device and tap the Add button (plus sign) in the bottom menu to record a new video. If you have an existing video (or videos) stored on your device that you want to post to TikTok, you can upload it to the app and then add a sound to it. Tap Upload to the right of the record button. If you are recording your video through the TikTok app instead of uploading it, you can skip to step six. Tap the Select (circle) check box at the top right of the video thumbnail (or multiple video thumbnails) to select it. Tap the video itself to preview it. You can also switch from the Videos tab to the Images tab at the top if you also want to include photos. Tap Next in the lower-right corner. Optionally, crop the video, change the speed, or change the orientation before selecting Next in the upper-right corner. Steps six and seven are for users who are recording their video through the app, which from here, you can jump to step eight. If you are recording a video directly through the TikTok app, tap the large red Record button to take small bursts of recorded video or, alternatively, tap and hold it to continue recording all the way through. Before you start recording, be sure to use the timer settings at the bottom of the screen to or 15-second video recording. Optionally, apply effects using the buttons on the preview screen, then tap the check mark button. Select Sounds in the lower-left corner. Browse TikTok's built-in sound library using categories or searching for something specific using the search field at the top. Categories like Recommended, Playlist, Games, Hip Hop, Greatest Hits and more are previewed in the main tab. Tap All at the top right of any category to see all the sounds included in that specific category. Note that sounds have different lengths of time. Some may be as short as 10 seconds, while others are as long as one minute. Be sure to select one with the appropriate length for the length of the video. Tap a sound to listen to the clip's playback, then select the check mark on the right to apply it to the video and preview it as the sound plays. If you want to change the sound, simply tap Sounds again at the bottom left to choose another sound. If you come up with a sound you want to use for a future video, tap the bookmark icon on the right to save it to your Favorites tab. Tap Volume in the vertical menu on the right to adjust the volume of the Original sound and the Added Sound up or down, then tap the check mark when you're done. Finish editing your video with optional effects, text, stickers and more. Select Next at the bottom right to add a title, set the visibility. When you're done making the settings, tap Publish to add the video to TikTok. Thank you for let us know! Tell us why! Why!
